Unclothed except for a T-shirt, the towheaded youngster was rescued by D. D. St. John, one of 300 searchers.

"Where are you going?" St. John asked.

"Looking for my dog Shorty," replied the barefoot child.

The child's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Houston Brown, said Shorty, a shaggy black and white dog, returned to their farm house "barking and howling."

"I guess he was trying to tell us where Bobby was," said Brown.

"Rich man's toy!"

That's what "wise guys" of the 1880's called the newfangled electric service. And that's all it might be today—IF . . .

IF people hadn't risked their savings to start electric companies such as yours, and to keep them growing.

IF others, often against expert advice, hadn't poured out their energy and time—to extend the wires farther and farther, make the service better and better, bring the rates lower and lower.

They took the risks—they developed the skills—and everybody benefits. That's the way the American business system works.

Rich man's toy? Today, electricity is everyman's good right arm!
